Presented by the Philosophy Club

Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz lived in colonial Mexico under Spanish rule in the 17th century and was one of the most important contributors to the Spanish Golden Age.

A feminist before feminism, she advocated for women's right to education and intellectual authority. One of her most famous feminist works is "Hombres Necios" or "You Foolish Men."

This week we will discuss how her work has been used as a philosophical basis for feminist standpoint theory. Let's discuss!
