

November 16 - 19, 2015

A Series of Lectures and Performance

Monday, November 16

Presentation: "Global Citizen"

Dr. John Haas, Professor of History

11 am-12 pm-LC 155

Flexcredit

Dr. Haas will share a common goal of bridging cultural gaps; examining global challenges and solutions; increasing global competencies; and fostering peace through global education, dialogue and conflict resolution.

Tuesday, November 17

Presentation: "Fashion Show"

History and Traditions of Mexican Dress

11 am - 1 p.m. Science Room S-201

The History and Tradition of Mexican Dress is a fashion show that weaves historical and cultural influences from different parts of the world. The fashion show will showcase beautiful costumes and traditional dress from various regions of Mexico and will feature various Cerritos College administrators, faculty, staff and students.

Wednesday, November 18

Topic: Ecological Interdependence

Dr. Frank Gaik, Professor of English

11:00 am - 12:00 p.m. Science Room S-102 Flexcredit

Presentation of excerpts from the film "Jiro Dreams of Tuna" tells the story of the story of the greatest living Sushi master in Japan. This presentation shares the reality of our interdependent ecology—and shows how you can help.

Thursday, November 19

"Chinese Traditional Dance and Performance of Chinese Musical Instruments"

11am - 12 pm Student Center Main Stage

Come enjoy the area community Chinese Traditional Dancers and a performance with the most popular traditional bowed string instruments used by various groups in China.

International Education Week is an annual celebration during which the Office of International Student Services at Cerritos College in collaboration with faculty, International Student Association, and community members plan to host a series of events to highlight the College's support of international education.

International Education Week was first declared by the U. S. Departments of State and Education in 2000 as part of their effort to encourage policies and programs that prepare Americans for a global environment and attract future leaders from abroad to study in the U.S.

For more information, please contact David Tilahun at ext. 2232; dtlahun@cerritos.edu.

Refreshments and snacks will be available at each venue.

Classes are Welcome!

Sponsored by
The Office of International Student Services

