A fifth generation Californian, Ched is an activist theologian who has worked in social change and radical discipleship movements for more than 45 years. With a degree in New Testament Studies, he is a popular educator who animates scripture and its relationship to issues of faith-based peace and justice. He has authored over 100 articles and more than a half-dozen books.

If disability accommodations (e.g., communication access, alternate formats) are needed to participate, please submit your request at <https://www.cerritos.edu/accommodations-request> within 7 days in advance of the event.
