

We are proud to support and uplift our first-generation college student community during the week of November 3-7th. We will honor students who are first in their families to attend college, recognizing their unique challenges and remarkable achievements and invite you to join us for the upcoming events.

What is the definition of a First Gen Student?

- No parent in the household has a Bachelors degree from the U.S.
- Younger siblings of older college siblings are still considered First Gen Students
